

Dartmoor Wild Camping: Belstone and Yes Tor

Route Summary

---

This route takes a journey through the north west part of Dartmoor, one of the bleakest but also most dramatic parts of this national park. There are plenty of wild camping opportunities along the way, but we recommend a spot on the West Okemont River.

Route Overview

---

Category: Walking
Length: 22.660 km / 14.16 mi
Last Modified: 31st May 2019
Difficulty: Medium
Rating: Unrated
Surface: Undefined
Date Published: 30th May 2019

Description

---

This Dartmoor wild camping route takes a journey through the north west part of Dartmoor, one of the bleakest but also most dramatic parts of the this national park. Along the way you take in Yes Tor and High Willhays, the two highest parts of Dartmoor, with splendid wild camping spots on the West Okemont River. The walk starts and finishes in Belstone, a delightful little village with a fantastic pub. Starting point: free parking across the Belstone Village Hall. Distance: 14.5 miles (23km). Height gain: 600 meters (2000 feet). OS Maps: Explorer OL28.

Waypoints

---

Wild Camping Spot

(50.66915; -4.01486)

Plenty of lovely places to camp all along the West Okemont River

